4. Manage Users

The Manage User section in the employer admin interface provides various functionalities for overseeing recruiters within the system. Here, the employer admin can efficiently manage and monitor the recruiters' activities. Some key features of the Manage User section include:

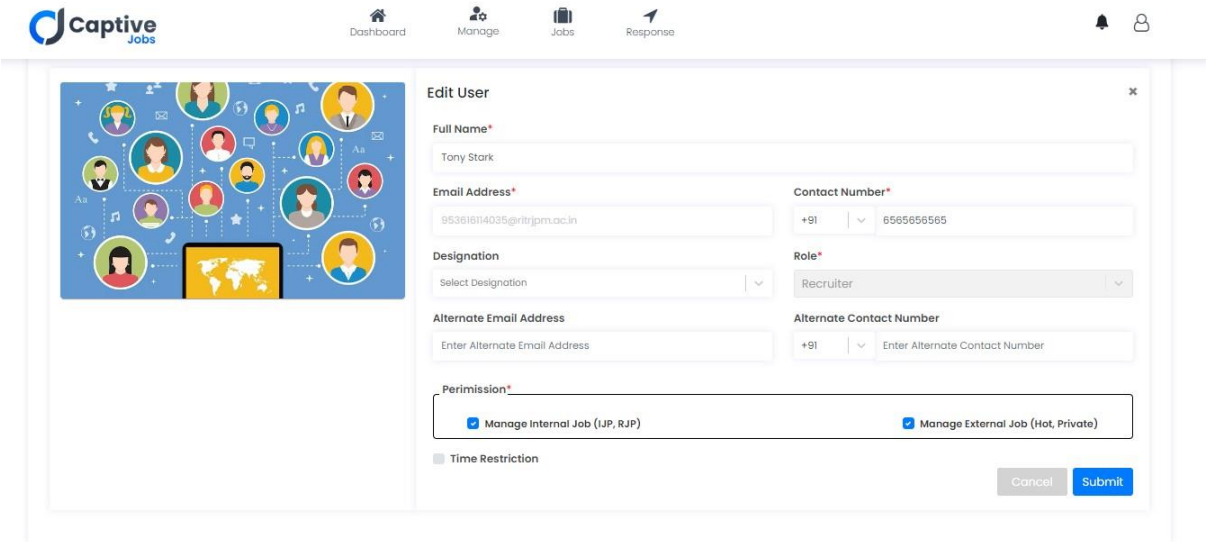

Select Users from the manage section in top navigation menu.

1. Users: On click of “Users” the user list page will open. The employer admin can access a comprehensive list of all the recruiters added to the system. This view provides essential details about each recruiter, such as their name, contact information, and role. The admin can also easily determine the total count of recruiters in the system, providing a quick overview.

2. Edit Recruiters: The employer admin has the authority to edit the information of individual recruiters. This capability allows for updates or corrections to be made to their profile, ensuring accurate and up-to-date information. The admin can modify details such as name, contact information, or other relevant data as required.

3. Enable/Disable Recruiters: As an employer admin you can enable or disable recruiters within the system. This feature allows you to control a recruiter's access and functionality. By enabling a recruiter, they can continue their regular operations, while disabling a recruiter temporarily restricts their access and prevents them from performing any activities within the system.
4. Add Recruiter: The employer admin can add new recruiters to the system through the Manage User section. This process involves inputting the necessary details, such as the recruiter's name, contact information, and any other required information.

- Assign Permissions: The employer admin has the authority to assign permissions to individual recruiters. Permissions define the specific actions and functionalities accessible to each recruiter within the system. By assigning permissions, the admin can control the level of authority granted to recruiters, ensuring proper delegation and alignment with their roles and responsibilities.

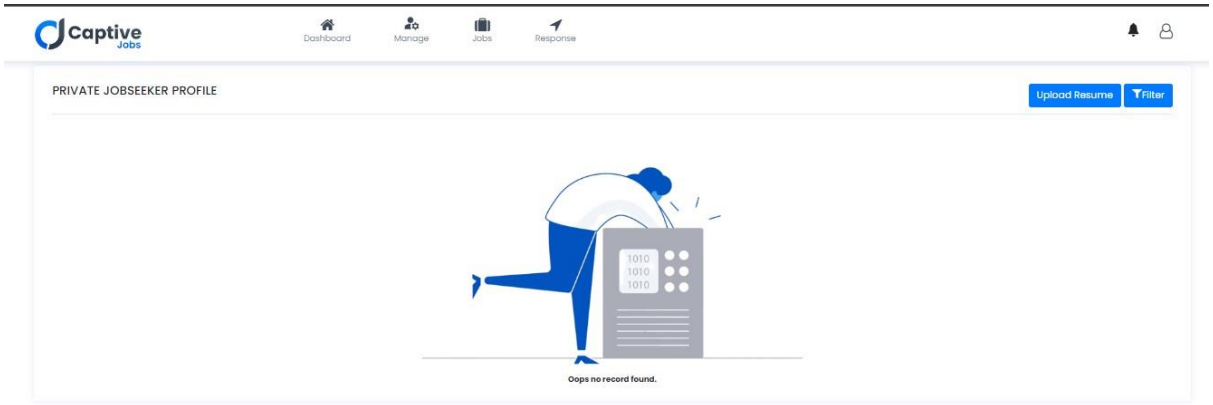

5. Private DB

A private database system is developed for employers to upload and store job seeker profiles for their personal use. This private database will not be visible to the public, ensuring the confidentiality of the profiles. You can access the private database from the user dropdown section in the top navigation menu.

5.1 Private Jobseeker Profile

Within this system, employers will have the ability to view all the uploaded files and select from them when a job requirement arises.

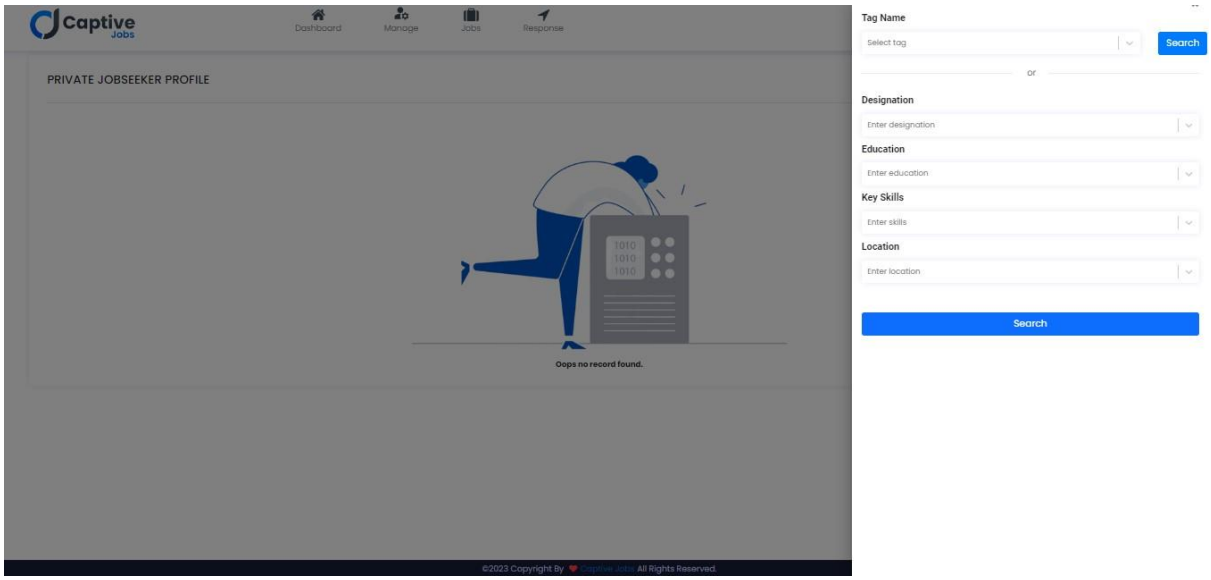

5.2 Upload Resumes

Employers can upload users' resumes to the database and assign tags to categorize and organize the profiles. These tags can be based on various criteria such as skills, qualifications, experience, or any other relevant information. This feature enables employers to efficiently manage and retrieve profiles based on specific requirements.

5.3 Search Through Filters

When searching for a user profile, as an employer admin you can utilize filters to refine your search results. These filters include tags, designation, location, key skills, and more. By applying these filters, you can quickly and effectively find relevant profiles that match your specific criteria.

This private database will provide you with a secure and centralized platform to manage job seeker profiles. It streamlines the recruitment process, allowing you to easily track and access candidate information whenever needed.

6. Job Posting:

This process allows the employer to post various types of jobs, including both external and internal positions. Let's take a closer look at the different job posting categories and their respective types:

Click on the Jobs button from the top navigation bar.

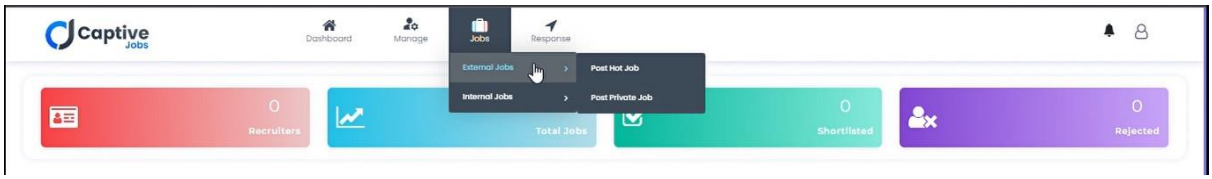

Employer/Recruiter can post two types of jobs:

- External
- Internal

6.1 External Jobs

External job postings aim to attract candidates from outside the organization. Click on External job from the job section and navigate to post hot job.

1. Post Hot Job

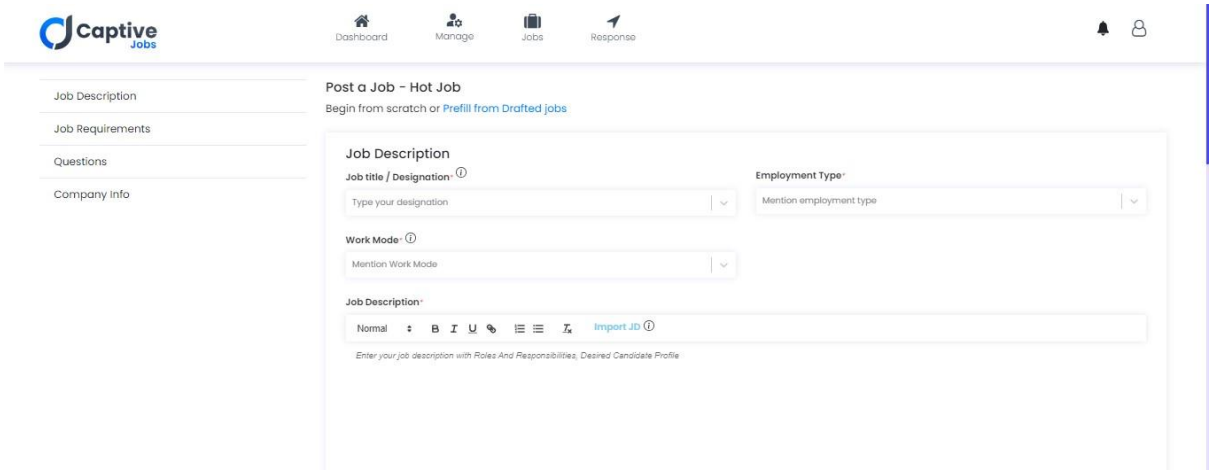

These are positions that require immediate attention and are considered high priority. They usually have a quick turnaround time for applications, interviews, and selection. Hot jobs are ideal for candidates seeking immediate employment opportunities.

- On click of Hot Jobs you will be navigated to the Post Hot Job page.

- Here you need to fill all the necessary information according to your requirements.
- Navigate through the various menus, Job Requirements, qualifications, and company info.

- Or simply scroll down the page to enter required information.

- Once every mandatory information is filled, you can save the job post as draft to post it later.
- Also, you can directly post it by clicking on “Post Job Button.”

6.2 Internal Job Posting

Internal job postings will allow existing employees to explore new career opportunities within the organization. It promotes professional growth, employee retention, and provides a chance for internal talent to be recognized and utilized effectively. Recruiter can post two types of internal job posting.

1. Post IJP

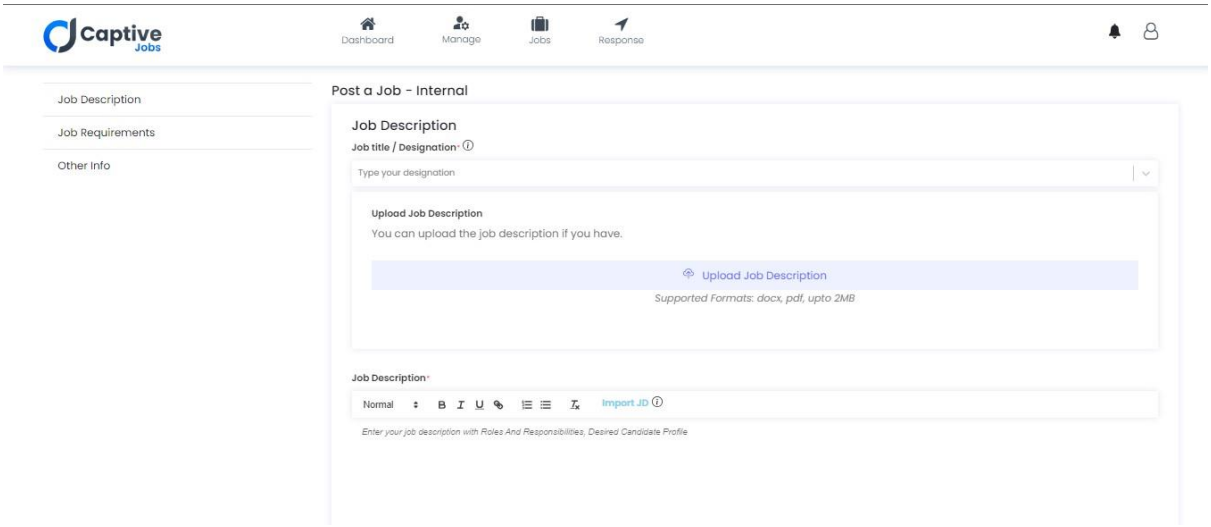

These positions are exclusively available to current employees within the organization. The employer encourages internal mobility and growth by offering employees the opportunity to apply for different roles within the company. Internal job postings foster career development and encourage talent retention.

- On click of “Post IJP” you will be navigated to the Post IJP Job page.

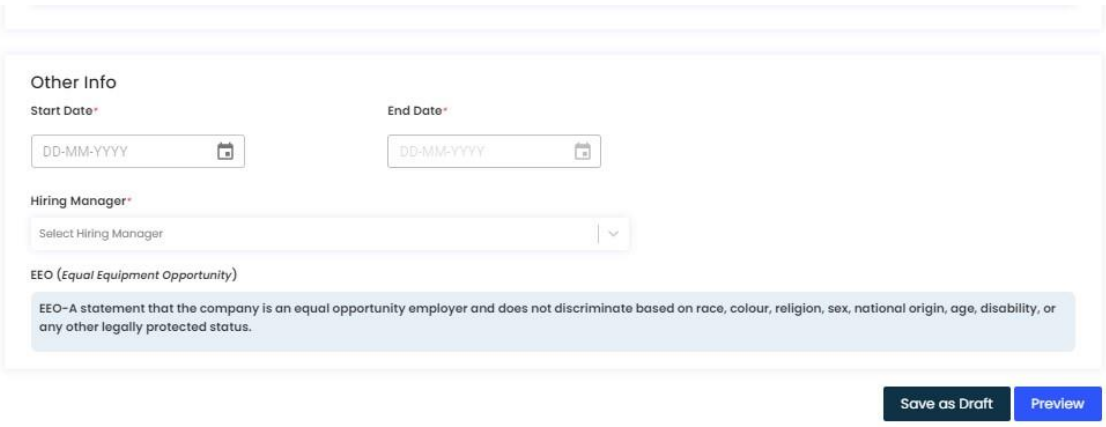

- Here you need to fill all the necessary information according to your requirements.
- Navigate through the various menus, Job Description, Job Requirements, and Other Info.
- Provide a clear and engaging job title that accurately represents the position.
